

LIDSAY CREATOR LICENSE

Version 1.0 — September 11, 2026

Lidsay Creator Collection

1. Purpose of this License

This Lidsay Creator License (the “License”) sets forth the terms under which the copyright owner or authorized rights administrator of certain musical works included in the Lidsay Creator Collection (the “Works”) grants the User a free, limited, non-exclusive, worldwide and non-transferable license to use such Works in digital content created and published by the User, subject to the terms and restrictions contained herein.

This License does not transfer ownership of the Works or any copyright, neighboring rights, or other intellectual property rights to the User.

The free availability of a Work does not mean that the Work is in the public domain or that the User acquires ownership of any rights in it.

2. Ownership

The Works remain the property of their respective authors, composers, performers, producers and/or rights holders, as applicable.

Lidsay Network (“Lidsay”) administers and/or makes the Works available under this License to the extent of the rights and authorizations granted to Lidsay.

The User receives only the rights expressly granted under this License.

Nothing in this License shall be interpreted as an assignment, transfer, sale or conveyance of copyright or other proprietary rights in any Work.

3. Nature of the License

The license granted under this document is:

- Free of charge.
- Non-exclusive.
- Worldwide.
- Non-transferable.
- Non-sublicensable.
- Limited to the uses expressly permitted herein.
- Subject to all restrictions contained in this License.

No royalties are payable to Lidsay for uses expressly authorized under this License.

4. Permitted Uses

The User may incorporate the Works into audiovisual, digital or multimedia content created by the User or produced under the User's direction, provided that such use remains within the permissions granted by this License.

Permitted uses include, without limitation:

4.1 Digital Platforms

- YouTube.
- TikTok.
- Instagram.
- Facebook.
- Twitch.
- X.
- Threads.
- Snapchat.
- Podcast platforms.
- User-generated content platforms.
- Personal websites.
- Blogs.
- Digital portfolios.

4.2 Monetized Content

The User may monetize content incorporating a Work through the ordinary monetization mechanisms of the applicable platform.

This includes, for example:

- YouTube monetization.
- Subscriptions.
- Donations.
- Tips.
- Platform creator programs.
- Revenue generated by the User's own content.

This permission does not grant the User the right to independently sell, license, monetize or otherwise commercially exploit the Work itself.

5. Use by Businesses and Brands on Social Media

Businesses, brands, organizations, agencies and marketing teams may use the Works in content published organically through their own digital channels.

Permitted examples include:

- An Instagram Reel published organically by a brand.
- A TikTok published through a corporate account.
- A YouTube Short published organically.
- An audiovisual post on Facebook.
- An organic brand video.
- Content created by an internal marketing team.
- Content produced by an agency for its client and published organically.

The fact that content references or promotes a brand, product, service or organization does not by itself make the use prohibited, provided that the content remains an organic social-media publication and is not used as paid advertising or distributed through paid media.

6. Organic Content vs. Paid Advertising

This License distinguishes between organic content and paid advertising or paid media distribution.

6.1 Organic Content

“Organic Content” means content normally published through the digital channels of a creator, business, organization or brand without purchasing media placement or advertising distribution for that content.

Organic use is permitted under this License.

6.2 Paid Advertising and Paid Media

The User may not use a Work as part of paid advertising, a paid media campaign, or commercial communication distributed through purchased advertising placement.

This includes, without limitation:

- Meta Ads.
- Instagram Ads.
- Facebook Ads.
- TikTok Ads.
- YouTube Ads.
- Google Ads.
- Programmatic advertising.
- Paid media campaigns.
- Advertising spots.
- Television commercials.
- Radio commercials.
- Cinema advertising.
- Out-of-home advertising.
- Digital Out-of-Home (DOOH).
- Digital advertising screens.
- Third-party advertising campaigns.
- Any other paid advertising medium.

Use of a Work in an organic social-media post does not automatically authorize the User to subsequently promote that post as an advertisement or paid media placement.

7. Commercial Synchronization

This License does not authorize Commercial Synchronization of the Works.

For purposes of this License, “Commercial Synchronization” means the synchronization of a Work with audiovisual content primarily intended for advertising, commercial exploitation, professional audiovisual production, or paid media distribution beyond the organic uses expressly permitted herein.

Examples include, without limitation:

- Commercials.
- Advertising spots.
- Advertising campaigns.
- Feature films.
- Television series.
- Television programs.
- Cinematic productions.
- Video games.
- Commercial trailers.
- Branded entertainment produced as advertising.
- Audiovisual productions created for an advertising campaign.
- Professional third-party audiovisual productions.
- Any project in which the music forms part of a commercially licensed audiovisual rights package.

Such uses require a separate authorization from Lidsay or the applicable rights holder.

8. Third-Party Advertising

The User may not use a Work in an advertising campaign produced for a third party when such campaign constitutes paid advertising or Commercial Synchronization.

This includes situations in which a creator, influencer, agency or production company uses a Work in a commercial produced for a client and subsequently distributes that commercial through paid advertising or other commercial media.

Organic social-media use remains permitted subject to the other terms of this License.

9. Editing and Adaptation for Content

The User may make reasonable technical modifications necessary to incorporate a Work into permitted content, including:

- Cutting the Work.
- Trimming the Work.
- Looping portions of the Work.
- Applying fades.
- Adjusting duration.
- Synchronizing the Work to the duration of the content.
- Adjusting volume levels.

These modifications do not grant the User any ownership or other rights in the musical composition or sound recording.

The User may not use these permissions to create a new musical recording, remix, musical adaptation or derivative musical work intended for independent exploitation.

10. Derivative Musical Works

This License does not authorize the User to use a Work as source material to create a new musical composition or sound recording that is subsequently exploited as an independent work.

The User may not, without separate authorization:

- Create a new song using the Work as its musical basis.
- Reuse the melody as an original composition.
- Create a remix intended for independent exploitation.
- Incorporate substantial musical elements of the Work into a new musical production.
- Register a derivative musical work as the User's original creation.
- Monetize a derivative musical work as though the User were its sole author or rights holder.

Any authorization to create a musical adaptation, remix or derivative work must be obtained separately.

11. Prohibition on Claiming or Registering the Work as Your Own

The User acknowledges that the Works belong to their respective rights holders.

The User is expressly prohibited from:

- Registering a Work as their own.
- Registering the musical composition under the User's name.
- Registering the sound recording under the User's name.
- Claiming to be the author, composer, producer or exclusive rights holder of a Work.
- Filing copyright registrations or similar claims that falsely attribute ownership of a Work to the User.
- Altering metadata for the purpose of falsely representing ownership.
- Presenting a Work as an original creation of the User.

Nothing in this section prevents the User from being recognized as the author or creator of original audiovisual content that legitimately incorporates a Work under this License.

12. Content ID and Automated Rights Management

The User may not register the Works, or any version of the Works, with systems designed to identify, claim, monetize, block or otherwise enforce rights against third-party content.

This includes, without limitation:

- YouTube Content ID.
- Meta Rights Manager.
- Equivalent content identification systems.
- Automated rights-management services.
- Audio fingerprinting systems used to claim third-party content.

The User may not issue copyright claims against other users based on a Work licensed under this License.

13. Stock Libraries and Redistribution

The User may not:

- Resell a Work.
- Distribute a Work as stock music.
- Add a Work to a music library.
- Add a Work to a third-party licensing catalog.
- Offer a Work as a paid music asset.
- Sublicense a Work.
- Give away a Work as part of another music package.
- Redistribute the original audio files independently.

The purpose of the Creator Collection is to allow Users to incorporate the Works into their own creative content, not to create additional distribution channels for the Works.

14. Attribution

Where technically and reasonably possible, Lidsay recommends providing attribution in a form similar to:

Music: All Tracks published to Lidsay Creator Collection Lidsay Network

Failure to provide attribution due to technical limitations of a platform or format does not automatically constitute a violation of this License where reasonable attribution is not possible.

Attribution does not grant any additional rights in the Work.

15. Use as Part of a Creator's Content Identity

The User may incorporate a Work repeatedly into their digital content, including as background music, an intro, outro, transition or recurring element of their audiovisual identity.

However, this permission does not grant the User exclusivity over the Work.

The User may not claim ownership of the Work or prevent other Users from using the same Work in accordance with this License.

16. Commercial Use and Additional Licensing

Where a User wishes to use a Work in a context not permitted by this License, the User may request a separate commercial authorization.

Depending on availability and ownership of the applicable rights, Lidsay may offer:

- Synchronization licenses.
- Advertising licenses.
- Film and television licenses.
- Video game licenses.
- Brand campaign licenses.
- Other audiovisual licenses.

Commercial licenses are subject to their own terms, conditions and fees.

17. Non-Exclusivity

This License is non-exclusive.

The same Work may be used simultaneously by multiple Users, provided that each use complies with this License.

The User may not claim exclusivity over a Work, any portion of a Work, or any musical concept contained within the Creator Collection.

18. No Transfer of Rights

The User may not transfer, sell, assign, sublicense or otherwise convey the rights granted to another person.

The authorization is tied to the permitted use of the User's content.

Where an agency produces content for a client, the agency may incorporate a Work into the client's organic content provided that such use complies with this License. This does not constitute a transfer of ownership or copyright in the Work.

19. Availability and License Versions

Lidsay may create new versions of the Creator Collection and may change the future availability of individual Works.

Future modifications to this License shall not retroactively affect uses lawfully made while a previous version of the License was in effect, unless otherwise required by applicable law.

Each version of this License shall be identified by a version number and publication date.

20. Breach and Termination

A material breach of this License may result in termination of the authorization granted to the infringing User.

Upon termination, the User must cease any use that is no longer authorized under this License.

Termination does not limit any rights or remedies available to the applicable rights holder under applicable law.

21. Disclaimer

The Works are provided free of charge under this License.

To the extent permitted by applicable law, Lidsay makes no guarantee that a Work will be suitable for a particular purpose or that any Work will remain available indefinitely.

Nothing in this section limits any non-waivable rights granted to the User under applicable law.

22. Moral Rights and Third-Party Rights

This License does not intend to transfer, waive or otherwise affect moral rights of authors or any rights that cannot legally be waived or transferred.

Where a Work incorporates rights belonging to third parties, its use remains subject to the applicable authorizations and rights.

23. Interpretation

This License shall be interpreted so that the permissions granted are limited to those expressly stated herein.

Any use that is not expressly authorized by this License shall be considered unauthorized unless separate permission has been obtained from the applicable rights holder.

If any provision of this License is found to be invalid or unenforceable, the remaining provisions shall remain in effect to the extent permitted by applicable law.

24. Governing Law

This License shall be governed by and interpreted in accordance with the laws applicable in the United Mexican States, without prejudice to mandatory provisions of law that may apply to a User based on their jurisdiction.

25. Acceptance

By downloading, reproducing, incorporating or using a Work from the Lidsay Creator Collection, the User acknowledges that they have read and understood this License and agree to use the Work only within the permissions and restrictions established herein.

If the User does not agree to these terms, the User is not authorized to use the Works.
